

Facility Update

During a recent roof inspection, we had a unique perspective on the construction of the new classroom wings at the High School. The first picture shows the view from the roof of the gym. That perspective provides a good birds-eye view of the classroom wing. If you use your imagination, you can almost see the corridor going south with classrooms on either side of it. The second picture shows a view of the area where the second classroom wing will go that will connect to our existing science labs.
